DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 4/24/2008 has been entered.

Reasons for Allowance

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The nearest prior art, WO 02/48458 ('458), discloses a similar composition but formed without the water-in-oil emulsion. The additional prior art relied upon in the rejections, US 3624019 ('019), provides a rapid method for of dissolving polymers in aqueous solutions, but fails to disclose spray fracture. The Declaration under 37 CFR 1.132 submitted on 4/24/2008 by Kenneth D. Vinson, who is also a co-inventor in '458, states that the softening composition of '458, made by adding the polymer directly to water ('458, p 35, lines 14-19), yielded inconsistent spray results and inability to control spray droplet size across the width of the web, and that some spray nozzles produced excessively large droplets while others produced a mist that failed to deposit. In addition, the polymer of '458 tended to settle during storage. The claimed composition, wherein the polymer is added by water-in-oil emulsion, is an improvement over the prior art by showing no tendency to settle and providing the same spray performance in each spray nozzle (consistent spray fracture). Furthermore, Mr. Vinson states that he is not able to make a suitable composition using the teaching of '458 and '019. The inventive composition thus provides advantages over the cited prior art which were neither disclosed or made obvious by the prior art.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
